

Teenage Cancer Trust

Teenage Cancer Trust is looking to recruit Collection Volunteers to help the charity raise money for a nationwide bucket collecting event taking place over the weekend of Saturday 30th and Sunday 31st July at the Argos catalogue launch.

The charity believes that teenagers shouldn't stop being teenagers because they have cancer. Historically, teenage cancer patients have been treated on children's wards or with elderly patients, young people often feel isolated when facing a cancer diagnosis. Teenage Cancer Trust is building units in NHS hospitals where young people with cancer are treated with others their own age, in an environment suited to their needs.

Teenage Cancer Trust is partnered with Home Retail Group, the parent company of Argos and Homebase until July, 2012. The partnership raise much needed funds for specialist services throughout the UK and the Republic of Ireland.

The charity need Collection Volunteers locally for bucket collecting and awareness raising at Argos store, 2 Lion Works, King Street, Abergavenny. If you are interested in helping Teenage Cancer Trust in this very worthwhile cause please email volunteers@teenagecancertrust.org or contact Caroline Brocklehurst by phone on 020 7612 0370.
